You are invited to the premiere of A Storm We Call Progress, an original chamber opera imagined and performed by our USU students and alumni, and written by Logan native Emma Cardon, who is currently a senior at Vanderbilt University.

Laurana Wheeler Roderer, a recent graduate of USU in violin performance, and violinist Kirsten Barker (a current USU student) have been working tirelessly for the past eighteen months on this work. Kirsten and Laurana co-wrote the libretto, wrote grants to procure the funds to commission the music, and pulled endless details into focus to produce this chamber opera concerning global sustainability. Since the intended live premiere was cancelled due to the COVID-19 pandemic, these intrepid students have pivoted to record and produce the work to be presented in a completely virtual format.
